DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claim: 1-4, 7-9, 11, 13-16, 18-28, 30-44, and 46-50 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S. Patent Application No. US 2002/0107820 (hereinafter "Huxter") in view of Mitsuoka et al (2002/0016744).

Regarding claims 1, 18, 34, and 50, Huxter discloses receiving and registering schedule information regarding a form of receiving of a package addressed to a member from the member (see page 5, paragraph #106); receiving a shipment request from a sender of a package (#0183); determining a delivery form with reference to at least the receiver's schedule information registered in said receiving and registering step when said receiver is a member (see page 5, paragraph #116); when said delivery form determined in said determining step involves a movement of said package, generating delivery request information for a distributor in accordance with said delivery form (see page 5, paragraph #116).

However, Huxter fails to disclose a family member or lodger receiving the package. Mitsuoka et al discloses a family member or lodger receiving the package (see [0011]). Mitsuoka et al also discloses wherein said determining comprises referring to the schedule information of at least one of the registered family member of said customer member and the registered lodger of said customer member to make one of the registered family member and the registered lodger receive the package delivered to an address of said customer member, when said customer member to receive the package is unavailable for receiving. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify Huxter's invention with Mitsuoka's use of a family member or lodger receiving the package in order for "making delivery of products more efficient, and having deliveries made that are convenient for delivery recipients (See Abstract)."

[claim 2] Huxter also discloses when said delivery form determined in said determining step involves a movement of the package, registering scheduled delivery information in said receiver's schedule information (see page 5, paragraph #116);

[claim 3] sending said distributor information regarding said delivery form determined in said determining step before starting to deliver said package (see page 5, paragraph #11); [claim 4] receiving a delivery completion notice including receiving status data from said distributor (see page 2, paragraph #17); [claim 7] receiving and registering information regarding a fixed delivery charge from said distributor after said package is received by said distributor (see page 15, paragraphs #245-246); [claim 8] there is a case where said delivery form is determined as undeliverable in said determining step (see page 16, paragraph #256); [claim 9] including information regarding a determined as undeliverable in said sending said sender a deliverable date when said delivery determining step (it is inherent that the e-tailer will be notified when a package is undeliverable); [claim 11] said generating step, when said delivery form is determined as forwarding or keeping in said determining step, delivery request information addressed to said distributor is generated by using forwarding, destination information or keeping place information registered for said receiver in advance (see page 16, paragraph #255).

[claim 13] Huxter further discloses when a delivery request to a non-member is received from a sender of a package, registering information of said non-member included in said delivery request as provisional member information; sending a member registration request to said non-member; and sending information registered as said provisional member information to said non-member when membership registration is requested from said nonmember (see page 7, paragraph #148); [claim 14] wherein in said receiving and registering step, schedule information regarding a form of receiving said package addressed to said member is received as a predetermined template selection instruction from said member (see page 5, paragraph #106)) [claim 15] wherein said determining step comprises a step of sending a schedule input request to said receiver when said receiver's schedule information indicates it is not fixed (see page 16, paragraph #255); and [claim 16] wherein said determining step comprises a step of sending said sender a notice indicating scheduling in progress (see page 5, paragraph 106).

Huxter discloses a program, apparatus, and method as set forth in claims 18-28, 30-44, and 46-53, which are similar to previously addressed claims 1-4, 7-9, and 11-16.

3. Claims 5, 6, and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Huxter in view of Mitsuoka et al as applied to the claims above, and further in view of U.S. Patent Application No. US 2002/0126813 (hereinafter "Partovi").

The combination of Huxter and Yang disclose all claimed elements as set forth above in paragraphs 3-4, but fail to explicitly disclose the use of giving the customer a reward for correct registration.

Partovi teaches the use of providing a reward for registering (see paragraph [0060]).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Huxter/Mitsuoka with a registration reward as taught by Partovi, because rewarding customers increases the likelihood that customers will do events desired by businesses.

4. Claims 51-53 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103 (a) as being unpatentable over Huxter in view of Mitsuoka et al and further in view of U.S. Patent Application No. US 2002/0072945 (hereinafter "Yang").

Regarding claims 51-53, Huxter discloses wherein the receiving and registering schedule information is carried out asynchronously with the determining and is carried out without relationship with a specific shipment request (see page 5, paragraph # 116).

Huxter fails to disclose the plurality of days with predetermined period of the schedule information carried out in advance of a shipment request and the receiving and registering schedule information is carried out without relationship with a specific shipment request.

Yang teaches method of package delivery and pickup including schedule information comprising at least one of the forms of receiving the package addressed to the member for each of a plurality of days within a predetermined period (see page 4, paragraphs 0060-0062).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Huxter/Mitsuoka with schedule information related to a plurality of days as taught by Yang because delivering items when the receiver is likely available to accept the items increases the efficiency of the delivery service, wherein decreasing the expense related to unsuccessful delivery attempts.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed 4/24/2007 with respect to claims 1-4, 7-9, 11, 13-16, 18-28, 30-44, and 46-50 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
